

The Károli Teacher Training Afternoons event series

proudly presents

its second workshop

for practising teachers and teacher trainees proposed by

Katalin P. Márkus

(PhD, former Károli University student)

under the title

Dictionaries - Compiling and Using Dictionaries

Finding the right dictionary is essential for learners of English. Learning how to use a dictionary is an important skill for any language learner and it is also beneficial for students who wish to look up word meanings for themselves. Showing students how to use dictionaries gives them one of the first tools they need to succeed in their studies and life.

Dr. Márkus will be touching upon theoretical and practical issues, and will hand out ready-to-take-home worksheets.

This time, the presentation (given that the topic is dictionaries) will be delivered in Hungarian.

Date and venue:

18 May, 2012; 16.00-17.30

Károli Gáspár University of the Reformed Church in Hungary

Room 319.

We are looking forward to welcoming you at the event!

Participation is free. We kindly ask to confirm your attendance by sending an e-mail to culturalreaderworkshop@gmail.com by 15th May, 2012, and writing “Teacher Training Afternoon” in the subject field.
